Songwriting & Basic Chord Theory

Saturday, September 23 & 30, 2017

9:00 am — 12:00 pm

Teens ages 14-17 and Adults

Learn songwriting at the Carnegie Art Center. If you know a few chords on your string instrument or keyboard, you can easily learn how to write melodies and learn to play those melodies while you accompany yourself with the chords. Bring your acoustic instrument or keyboard to the workshop. It doesn't matter what kind of string instrument you play, ukulele, guitar, banjo, mandolin. You name it. You'll learn how to play while you have fun! All age groups and skill levels are welcome to participate in this two hour workshop.

Instructor: John Radice, is a songwriter and musician who has taught students of all ages how to make music regardless of their skill level. For many years, John Radice has focused on the guitar as his primary instrument. Within the past several years, John Radice has shifted his focus to the ukulele. John Radice formed the Buffalo Ukulele Club that meets weekly and has performed at Kleinhans, Pausa Art House, the Erie County Fair, as well as many area nursing homes. John Radice offers music theory classes and ukulele lessons at the KenTon and Williamsville Adult Education programs.
